

Starting the master thesis

Before starting the master thesis, the student should in principle have achieved all their teaching units. Additionally, if they have been admitted to this master program under the constraint to pass the complement to the master, they must have successfully completed the additional academic requirements before starting the master thesis.

The student is responsible for finding the topic of the master thesis (see available topics on the websites of the JMCS research groups).

This part has to be completed electronically by the student before starting the master thesis.
